New Urban District with Multimodal Transit Access

A new urban neighborhood is emerging in Oakland, MacArthur Station. Centered at the MacArthur BART station, the seven block district connects surrounding neighborhoods – Temescal, Rockridge and Uptown in Oakland with the city of Emeryville. MacArthur Station has easy transit access to San Francisco and many East Bay destinations and job centers.

This new neighborhood consists of five phases of development, the first of which includes construction of a new BART parking garage, two new access streets and supporting infrastructure. During garage construction, the existing frontage road and sidewalk adjacent to MacArthur Station will be closed and shuttle/passenger drop off/pick up, as well as other station facilities will be relocated. For construction progress details, view the Passenger Bulletins posted at www.macarthurstation.com.
